Legislative background - the Equalities Act 2010

The Equalities Act 2010 replaces all of the previous pieces of anti-discrimination law that have been introduced over the last forty years in Great Britain (for example, Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000, Disability Discrimination Act 2005). The purpose of this new act is to consolidate and streamline the requirements whilst ensuring the protection of individuals from unfair treatment and promoting a fair and more equal society.

Previous equality duties involved schools producing separate policies and action plans for race, disability and sex. The new Equality Act introduces a single equality duty for all public sector organisations including schools, this is known as the 'Public Sector Equality Duty' (PSED). This duty requires all schools to show how they are meeting the aims of the Equality Act 2010 by giving 'due regard' to the need to eliminate discrimination, advance equality of opportunity and foster good relations.

The Equality Act protects the same groups of people that were covered by previous equality legislation, but these groups are now referred to as 'protected characteristics'.

What do schools have to do?

Previously public bodies were bound by three sets of duties to promote disability, race and gender equality. In April 2011 these were replaced by a single public sector equality duty (known as the PSED or the equality duty). This new duty extends to all the aspects of a person's identity – known as 'protected characteristics' – that are protected under the Equality Act 2010. These are race, disability, sex, age, religion or belief, sexual orientation, pregnancy and maternity and gender reassignment.

The equality duty has two main parts: the 'general' equality duty and 'specific duties'. The general equality duty sets out the equality matters that schools need to consider when making decisions that affect pupils or staff with different protected characteristics.

This duty has three elements. In carrying out their functions public bodies are required to have 'due regard' when making decisions and developing policies, to the need to:

1. Eliminate discrimination, harassment, victimisation and other conduct that is prohibited by the Equality Act 2010.
2. Advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.
3. Foster good relations across all protected characteristics – between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.

Having due regard to the need to advance equality of opportunity is defined further in the Equality Act 2010 as having due regard to the need to:

1. Remove or minimise disadvantages
2. Take steps to meet different needs
3. Encourage participation when it is disproportionately low.

We are required to carry out two specific duties in order to ensure we meet our equality duty. These are:

- To publish information to demonstrate how they are complying with the equality duty.
- To prepare and publish one or more specific and measurable equality objectives.

Ascend Learning Trusts Statement

This Equality Statement brings together all previous policies, schemes and action plans around equality including those that we had previously for Race, Gender and Disability. It includes all the protected characteristics covered under the Equality Act 2010 as well as other aspects which have the potential to discriminate against or to devalue any individuals within our community.

Our values

When founding the Trust in 2017 the Trustees believed the schools needed to be at the heart of the communities they service. Our schools and the Trust itself welcomes its diverse communities of staff and pupils, we believe Excellence in Education can only be achieved by working together with shared vision and values to enrich the lives of all who work or are educated in our schools.

The Trusts visions and values will ensure we will meet the duty through:

- Compassion – recognising and understanding the needs of diverse stakeholders, many of whose lives we will enrich and enlighten through their experiences in the classroom.
- Respect – acknowledge and celebrate the different traditions and cultures and developing a community who contribute to each school to enrich and enlighten all.
- Ambition – holding our community at the heart of all of our decisions, ensuring it is a great place to learn and to work, creating a vibrant community with amenities for all age groups.

We value difference and diversity, we want all to achieve no matter what their starting point, valuing the whole person over academic success. We seek to remove the barriers that prevent historically disadvantaged groups from realising their potential ensuring fairness and social justice.

We will treat all staff, pupils, visitors and applicants for employment equitably. No one will be accorded less favourable treatment because of age, disability, race, sex, sex reassignment, maternity and pregnancy, family circumstances, marital/civil partnership status, race, religious beliefs, sexual orientation or transsex status.

We understand the principal of the Equality Act 2010 and the work needed to ensure that those with protected characteristics are not discriminated against and are given equality of opportunity.

Meeting the general duties

As set out in the DfE guidance on the Equality Act, each school within the Trust aims to advance equality of opportunity by:

- Removing or minimising disadvantages suffered by people which are connected to a particular characteristic they have (e.g. pupils with disabilities, or gay pupils who are being subjected to homophobic bullying)
- Taking steps to meet the particular needs of people who have a particular characteristic (e.g. enabling Muslim pupils to pray at prescribed times)
- Encouraging people who have a particular characteristic to participate fully in any activities (e.g. encouraging all pupils to be involved in the full range of school societies)

In fulfilling this aspect of the duty, the school will:

- Publish * attainment data each academic year showing how pupils with different characteristics are performing
- Analyse the above data to determine strengths and areas for improvement, implement actions in response and publish this information
- Make evidence available identifying improvements for specific groups (e.g. declines in incidents of homophobic or transphobic bullying)
- Publish further data about any issues associated with particular protected characteristics, identifying any issues which could affect our own pupils

* Any data published will adhere to our Data Protection procedures and ensure no data is published which could directly or indirectly identify an individual pupil

"In line with our Data Protection procedures, any data published will be anonymised, meaning the data will not be published in a form where it can identify individuals. The anonymisation process ensures the published data, even when combined with other data sets, still cannot be used to identify individuals."

Application of the principles within this statement:

The principles will be applied and reflected in:

- The delivery of the school curriculum
- The teaching and learning within the school
- Our practice in relation to pupil progress, attainment and achievement
- Our teaching styles and strategies
- Our policies and practice in relation to admissions and attendance
- Our policies and practice in relation to staff
- Our care, guidance and support to pupils, their families and staff
- Our policies and practice in relation to pupil behaviour, discipline and exclusions
- Our partnership working with parents and carers
- Our contact with the wider school community

We also welcome our duty under the Education and Inspections Act 2006 to promote community cohesion. Community cohesion is generally defined as 'Working towards a society in which there is a common vision and sense of belonging by all communities; a society in which the diversity of people's backgrounds and circumstances is appreciated and valued; a society in which similar life opportunities are available to all; and a society in which strong and positive relationships exist and continue to be developed in the workplace, in schools and the wider community.'

We recognise that these duties reflect international human rights standards as expressed in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the UN Convention on the Rights of People with Disabilities, and the Human Rights Act 1998.

In fulfilling our legal obligations we will:

- Recognise and respect diversity
- Foster positive attitudes and relationships, and a shared sense of belonging
- Observe good equalities practice, including staff recruitment, retention and development
- Aim to reduce and remove existing inequalities and barriers
- Consult and involve widely
- Strive to ensure that society will benefit

The roles and responsibilities within our school community

Stakeholder consultation and involvement

This statement was initially shared with all LGB, staff, pupil voice groups and leadership groups. We are committed to further develop our consultation to ensure bi-annual involvement of staff, pupils and other relevant stakeholders in reviewing the progress of the pledges and actions. We will ensure that the whole school community is aware of the Single Equality Statement and our published equality information and equality objectives by publishing them on the Trusts and school's website.

Monitoring and Review

Implementation, monitoring and review are the responsibility of our Executive Leadership Team and our Trustees who have agreed and published this Statement which sets out our priorities and supports these with specific and measurable objectives.

We will report bi-annually on the Statement and analyse whether our Statement and related objectives have furthered the aims of the general equality duty and in particular educational outcomes for all within our school community with reference to the protected groups.

Equality objectives

We have developed 6 equality objectives which all schools will follow:
